Dear Alan Gavin

DCD Accreditation – 2005

Following your DCD accreditation submission, we are pleased to confirm that your company has passed the final check and have achieved accreditation for the following product name and version:

Product Name: Rovis

Version: 2.02

The above product and version can now be used for the production of Best Value Indicators BV96, BV97a, BV97b and BV187 as required for the DfT from 2004/05.

Confirmation of your software attaining accreditation has been published on the UKPMS web site, www.ukpms.com, as a news item, which also includes a copy of the Accreditation form submitted by yourselves.

As you may use this letter as confirmation that your software has passed the accreditation and send it to you clients, we have included the following table which shows information which will be useful to your existing and prospective clients:
